Jeremy brings 11 years of investigative experience to Firensics, A Haag Global Company, beginning his career as a police officer, advancing to investigator and fire investigator. Since 2010, he has been responsible for the direct investigation and supervision of over 100 fires and explosions, including losses involving fatalities and complex investigations including multiple interested parties requiring precise execution of scene investigations & processing.

Jeremy holds a Certified Fire Investigator Certificate through the International Association of Arson Investigators and is Pro-Board Certified. He also has an Intermediate Fire & Arson Certificates through the Texas Commission on Fire Protection and Advanced Peace Officer Certificate through the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement. In 2013, Jeremy became a Certified Fraud Examiner (Association of Certified Fraud Examiners) and maintains that certification to date. To remain at the forefront of forensic science and investigative technology, he adds an average of 50 hours of specialized training bi-annually to the more than 600 hours of accumulated specialized forensic training. He is currently working to complete his (V) designation for the IAAI-CFI.
